A spectacular Italian early 19th century ebony, tortoiseshell and bone specimen cabinet. The two door and twenty two drawer cabinet is raised by elegant bun feet below a rectangular bottom tier decorated with a finely inlaid bone fillet. Four turned baluster shaped supports lead upwards to a single large drawer and a lovely scalloped shaped apron. Above are sixteen visible drawers and two central doors each displaying an impressive tortoise shell background and a bone pull and fine fillet framed within a most decorative mottled wavy designed border. The two doors open to reveal five additional drawers, superb hinges, original hardware and finished inside of the door. Each side panel is decorated with four finely inlaid bone fillets set on an ebony background.
