A beautiful and high quality French 18th century Louis XVI period giltwood and grey marble demi lune console. The console is raised by elegant tope shaped feet below the striking arched stretcher with lovely mottled bands leading to the charming central urn flanked by intricately detailed swaging garlands. Each finely tapered fluted leg showcases charming acanthus leaf carvings at the base and mottle tap caps with interlocking patterns below the apron. The apron displays a stunning array of most decorative and finely detailed wave designs with striking rosettes flanked by mirrored wave like patterns and a central rosette. Above is the thick grey marble top with a mottled border following the shape of the console.
