A handsome French 18th century Louis XVI period Provençal oak and Rouge Royale marble center table. The rectangular table is raised by fine reeded bun feet below block supports with elegant recessed rosettes framed within a carved diamond shaped fillet and each attached by a beautiful scalloped shaped stretcher with a fine mottled border and lovely carved foliate designs.

Each leg displays a most decorative octagonal design with berried laurel carvings and striking richly carved baluster shaped acanthus leaf reserves.

Above each leg are striking finely carved sunflower reserves flanking the straight frieze with a fine recessed mottled band with carved foliate lattice designs at each side and an additional charming and an additional sunflower reserve at the center. Above is the original Rouge Royale marble top with rounded corners and a fine mottled border. All original warm patina throughout.
