An exceptional and most decorative French 19th century Directoire st. flamed mahogany, rosewood, maplewood and ormolu side/center table. The table is raised by its original casters below elegant scalloped shaped supports with fine ormolu fillets and pierced palmettes shaped designs. Each support is connected by a striking turned stretcher from where a beautiful lightly curved support extends supporting the two leaves above. Two column shaped supports with ormolu top caps and capitals lead up to the lovely masterfully inlaid top. The center of the top displays elegant rosewood diamond shaped inlays framed within maplewood borders and flamed mahogany. Each of the removable sides of the table pull out to be stored and the central support folds inward.
