A stunning and most attractive French 19th century Empire st. Belle Époque period Mahogany, Ormolu and Verde Antico marble side table. This beautiful single drawer table is raised by three cabriole Ormolu legs that contain open winged swans and supported on paw feet. The three legs are connected by a triangular Mahogany display tier that is decorated with a pierced Ormolu gallery. All three straight aprons are decorated similarly with a reeded Ormolu band and pierced scrolling Ormolu decorations atop the Mahogany panels. The singular drawer is placed on the front of this wonderful table and keeps its subtle presence due to exactly matching the other two sides with nothing additional aside from the central keyhole escutcheon. The fitted circular Verde Antico marble top is secured by a berried laurel Ormolu band containing rosette figures intermittently placed.
