A handsome French 19th century Empire st. Mahogany, Ormolu and Vert Campan marble console. The solid Mahogany console is raised on a rectangular plinth with a mottled edge on the three sides. Above are the 'S' scrolled front supports ending with richly carved lion paws and having recessed panels on all sides, with the fronts decorated at the top with an Ormolu acanthus leaf mount. At the back are two rectangular mottled columns back supports flanking the mirror back plate. The supports lead up to apron with handsome blocks decorated with Ormolu rosettes and centered by a recessed panel highly decorated with two branches filled with palmette leaves amidst 'C' scrolls. The branches flank a central large rosette all below a mottled top trim which supports the handsome Vert Campan marble. This console can be paired with 13414 as a near pair.
