A sensational and extremely decorative French 19th century Louis XIV st. Napoleon III period Ebony, Walnut and brass Boulle cabinet vitrine. The two door vitrine is raised by a straight base with exceptional inlaid brass designs of striking scrolled foliate movements, jesters, phoenix, and charming butterflies centering a finely detailed etched mask of a beautiful maiden. Each door is decorated with an extraordinary array of brass inlaid scrolled foliate designs with sensational attention to detail and depicting charming scenes of a young boy offering a basket of fruit to two dancing maidens. Lovely intricately detailed brass inlaid foliate movements extend throughout each door with men playing scrolled trumpets amidst beautiful blooming flowers. Each door retains its original glass panes with fine beveled borders and opens to reveal the walnut finished interior with an elegant diamond shaped design at the inside of the door and the five original adjustable shelves with the top three displaying fine brass fillets. Each side displays elegant inlaid brass fillets in a diamond design while the mottled top crown is decorated in the same manner as the base with exceptional scrolled foliate movements, jesters, phoenix, and charming butterflies centering a finely detailed etched mask of a beautiful maiden.
