A stunning and most unique French 19th century Louis XIV st. ormolu and glass side table. The low circular table is raised by striking and extremely decorative ormolu support with a triangular base, fine block feet, a wrap around gadroon band, three impressive and most unique unicorns, and superb richly chased palmette and foliate reserves. Three elegantly curved fluted supports lead upwards with hanging foliate hoops below a triangular reserve with concave sides, lovely topie shaped finials, and a superb fluted urn shaped support with remarkable foliate designs and masks of beautiful maidens. Above is the circular glass top with a most decorative scalloped border centered by a richly chased circular foliate ormolu reserve.
