An elegant and most decorative French 19th century Louis XV st. black lacquered, ormolu and Portoro marble cabinet. The cabinet is raised by fine scrolled feet with delicate pierced foliate ormolu sabots. Above the scalloped shaped frieze are the two central doors each decorated with stunning black lacquered panels of luxuriant branches, leaves and vividly colored flowers where charming finely detailed birds are perched. The right door displays a fine foliate ormolu keyhole escutcheon and opens to reveal three adjustable shelves. Above each leg are gold tooled interlocking geometric designs which lead up the sides to beautiful pierced foliate ormolu corner mounts. Above is the original Portoro marble top with a fine mottled border.
