A wonderfully detailed and elegant French 19th century Louis XV st.

Tulipwood and Ormolu side table, attributed to Francois Linke. This one drawer freestanding table is raised by slender cabriole legs with fine foliate wrap around Ormolu sabots. At the top of each leg is a stunning Ormolu bust of a maiden with foliate decorations. Each leg is connected by a bottom tier with striking veneered Tulipwood designs and a mottled Ormolu gallery. The scalloped front frieze is decorated with intricately detailed scrolled foliate designs set on a veneered Tulipwood background with a central foliate keyhole escutcheon. The two sides are decorated in the same manner. The top also displays an exquisite veneered Tulipwood design with a scalloped border and a fine wrap around mottled gallery.
