A handsome French 19th century Louis XV st. Walnut and Brèche d'Alep marble center table. The table is raised by elegant cabriole legs with beautiful block and scrolled feet decorated with richly carved acanthus leaves. A finely mottled fillet extends up each leg and along the impressive pierced arbalest shaped frieze centered by a stunning gadroon seashell like reserve flanked by intricately detailed foliate and blooming flower movements. Above is the original thick Brèche d'Alep marble top repeating the beautifully scalloped shape of the table and displaying a fine mottled border. All original warm patina throughout.
