A stunning and extremely elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. Belle Époque period giltwood and Rouge Griotte marble console. The uniquely scaled freestanding console is raised by a superb bottom tier with a beautiful scalloped movement and fine fluted designs. At the center is the original mirrored backplate flanked by the impressive pierced scrolled supports at each side adorned with large richly carved acanthus leaves and charming intricately detailed acorns and oak leaves. The straight frieze displays an exceptional and most decorative interlocking band with lovely floral accents and reeded bands. Above is the original thick Rouge Griotte marble top.
