An extremely elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. giltwood and Brèche de Medicis marble freestanding console. The console is raised by fine topie shaped feet below block rosette reserves. Each leg is connected by an attractive mottled stretcher and a striking central urn with acanthus leaf carvings. Each fluted tapered leg displays a finely carved top block rosette centering the most impressive carved frieze with beautiful swaging floral garlands, Vitruvian scrolls and a beautiful bow and quiver at the center. Above is the original Breche de Medicis marble top with a mottled border. All original gilt throughout.
