A most attractive French 19th century Louis XVI st. Giltwood and Rosé Vif des Pyrénées marble console. The freestanding console is raised on four topie shaped feet below large acanthus leaves and leading to the circular tapered fluted legs above. The legs are joined by an 'X' stretcher with a central 'Urn of Prosperity' topped by a finial and flanked by two laurel branches as a sign of peace. The apron showcases stunning fluted designs with richly carved rosettes above each leg, while the center front is a recessed panel with the eternal flame and a quiver with arrows which are signs of protection and prosperity. Above lays its original Rosé Vif des Pyrénées marble top with a mottled border.
