A most elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. giltwood and Vert Campan marble console. The freestanding console is raised by circular tapered fluted legs with beautiful finely detailed acanthus leaves, block rosette, and lovely topie shaped feet. Each leg is connected by a superb concave stretcher with a fine beaded design and striking central reeded urn with Greek key handles and richly carved blooming flowers. Above each leg are additional handsome block rosettes flanking the straight apron with an elegant fluted design and centered by a plaque with charming finely detailed swaging blooming flower garlands tied with ribbons. Above is the original Vert Campan marble top with a fine mottled border and fitted within a beautiful gadroon designed border.
