A very beautiful 19th century Louis XVI st. honey colored oak dessert console. The console is raised on circular tapered fluted legs with ormolu chandelles, sabots, and beading. The sliding reeded doors are centered by a fluted panel with ormolu knobs and keyhole escutcheon and one interior shelf. At each end is a fitted marble shelf with mirrored backplate flanked by richly chased ormolu mounts trailing on both sides. Above is a curved and fluted apron with a large central drawer and two smaller ones that swing outward. Ormolu laurel leaf drawer pulls with bow and ornate ormolu medallions between the drawers and at each end. Original Brocatelle d'Or marble top and mirror plates. All original gilt.
