A handsome and high quality French 19th century Louis XVI st. Mahogany, Brass, Ormolu and white Carrara marble Deux Corps cabinet. The stunning cabinet is raised on four circular tapered turned legs with Ormolu sabots and mottled bands. The lower portion of the cabinet displays two central doors and two curved side doors, with all showcasing rectangular recessed panels decorated with Ormolu borders and the original keyhole escutcheons. Above is the stunning apron with two central drawers and outer curved drawers, which are accented by circular Ormolu pulls and diamond shaped plaques. The upper portion of the cabinet consist of two central taller doors displaying the same recessed panels and Ormolu borders as the lower doors. The doors open to reveal two adjustable shelves and are flanked by quarter round display shelves with pierced Ormolu galleries fitted with white Carrara marble tops. At the top the same stunning pierced Ormolu gallery, which follows the shape of the cabinet with a display opening at the front.
