An exceptional and most elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st.

Mouchette Mahogany, ormolu, brass, and Gris St. Anne marble desert console. The console is raised by elegant topie shaped feet with fine ormolu sabots and top caps. The bottom tier retains its original fitted Gris St. Anne marble framed within a Mahogany band with an elegant fillet at the border.

At the back is the original mirrored backplate flanked by striking fluted columns with fitted brass fillets also repeated at the circular supports at the front with mottled ormolu plinths and capitals. The apron displays a superb and extremely decorative brass inlaid band with impressive diamonds below two drawers with ormolu pulls set on beautiful Mouchette Mahogany backgrounds and flanked by stunning and extremely unique pierced brass reserves with lovely geometric designs also repeated at each side. Above is the original fitted Gris St. Anne marble top framed within a most elegant pierced ormolu gallery.
