An exceptional French 19th century Louis XVI st. Oak, ormolu and Brèche Polychrome marble buffet. The honey colored two door five drawer buffet is raised by elegant circular tapered fluted legs with fine mottled feet and a charming wrap around twisted ribbon band. At the center are two doors each flanked by fluted columns with carved foliate chandelles and decorated with recessed panels framed within a mottled border and displaying fine berried laurel and tied ribbon ormolu keyhole escutcheons. The doors open to reveal all original hardware and one adjustable shelf. Each open side displays two tiers with a mottled border and retaining their original fitted mirror backplates. The apron displays five drawers, two of which display an elegant curved shape and two more at the center each displaying lovely fluted designs and richly chased ormolu pulls, which center the single central drawer with a stunning and most decorative mirrored Vitruvian scroll design. Above is the beautiful original Brèche Polychrome marble top with a fine mottled border.
