A most elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. ormolu and glass side/display table. The table is raised by unique and most decorative topie shaped feet below the beautiful slender legs. Each leg is connected by a fine concaved stretcher with a central foliate double finial. Above is a glass shelf with a beveled border fitted within a richly chased ormolu band. The top displays all the original beveled glass panes framed within a beaded band and with the striking front bevel matching the contour of the the keyhole escutcheon.
