An elegant most decorative French 19th century Louis XVI st. Ormolu centerpiece. This stunning centerpiece is raised on a socle shaped pedestal with berried laurel vines, acanthus leaves, swaging foliate garlands, and a cherub on either side. The urn is supported on a crest shaped support base with foliate decorated mottled edges. The oval shaped body displays fluted designs around its base and a joyful group of cherubs celebrating at the center. The body is joined on either side by pierced handles that are tastefully decorated with foliate branch designs. The upper rim is designed with hanging grape clusters and vines surrounding the finished interior.
