A beautiful and most elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. ormolu jewelry box. The box is raised by handsome paw feet with elegantly scrolled movements and acanthus leaves leading up each corner. At the center is a richly chased reserve with a horse's head amidst charming grape clusters. Flanking the horse, are intricately detailed recessed panels of a lovely house and a row boat on the ocean. The back and each side are decorated in the same fashion with striking recessed scenes. Above is a decorative band in an Entrelacs et les Rosaces pattern. The lid is decorated with superb foliate designs, berried laurel wreaths at each corner and a checkered pattern at the center framed within a reeded border.
