A most charming and very high quality French 19th century Louis XVI st. ormolu, patinated bronze and marble statue, signed Grégoire. The bronze is raised by a marble base with a fine cut protruding front below the patinated bronze support with a mottled border. The wonderfully executed ormolu statue above depicts a charming winged cherub standing on a small stand while holding a cornucopia. He is leaning and looking into a tray on his mother's lap where they are playing dice together. The beautiful mother is draped in a wonderfully executed flowing garment with a Greek key dental design, an elegant necklace and her hair tied in an updo.
