A stunning and very unique French 19th century Louis XVI st. ormolu, silvered bronze and white Carrara marble Annular clock. The clock is raised by three most decorative ormolu topie shaped feet below the triangular white Carrara marble base. The base displays concave sides with richly chased rinceaux and foliate pierced ormolu mounts and fine rosettes above each foot.

The masterfully executed ormolu three graces are draped in richly chased floral garlands and are standing with their arms holding up the clock above.

The clock displays a most decorative silvered bronze background with intricately chased berried and floral mounts and wrap around ormolu bands encasing the striking enameled and gilded dials. At the top is a charming and finely detailed seated cherub holding the eternal flame. Wonderful details throughout.
