A most elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. patinated deux corps cabinet vitrine. The vitrine is raised by a straight base with a mottled design and elegant side vertical columns with dentil molding at the top. Above is a single drawer displaying handsome lion head pulls with a ring and a central foliate keyhole escutcheon. The upper portion of the vitrine has two doors retaining their original glass panes and are flanked by architectural fluted columns. The doors open to reveal two adjustable painted shelves. At the top is the impressive and decorative mottled top crown above an additional dentil molding. All original patina throughout.
