An extremely handsome French 19th century Louis XVI st. walnut, ormolu, and marble center table. The table is raised by richly carved circular tapered legs with fine foliate, berried laurel, acanthus leaves and fluted patterns with topie shaped feet and finely chased ormolu sabots. The striking stretcher is decorated with detailed interlocking patterns with a foliate central reserve. The straight frieze is centered by a finely carved central plaque with a quiver amidst leaves and flanked by impressively carved and pierced foliate and rinceau patterns with an acanthus leaf and block rosette reserves above each leg. The pierced patterns are repeated at the sides and the back is likewise decorated. Above is the original thick rectangular Vert Antique marble top.
