A magnificent and most impressive French 19th century Neo-Classical st. flamed Mahogany, Verdigris patinated bronze, ormolu and Vert de Patricia buffet, possibly by French ébéniste Guingand. The two door two drawer buffet is raised by handsome richly chased Verdigris patinated bronze paw feet below striking tapered columns leading up each side with charming feet in sandals and superb intricately detailed caryatids with ormolu accents. The two doors at the center showcase the beautiful Mahogany wood grain each separated by a central panel framed within a fine wrap around mottled ormolu band with a lovely palmette and hammered design, and which opens to reveal a single adjustable shelf and finished interior side of the door. The drawers each display wonderful very unique swan neck ormolu pulls with exceptional attention to detail and scrolled wings in a rich satin and burnished finish. Above is the original Vert de Patricia marble top with elegant rounded corners. All original gilt and patina throughout.
