A stunning French 19th century Neo-Classical st. marble and ormolu side table. The table is raised by a most decorative triangular marble bottom tier with concave sides and ormolu ball, feet centered by a richly chased foliate and acorn ormolu inverted finial. Each of the three elegantly scrolled supports display fluted patterns and handsome paw feet with large acanthus leaves. At the center are three detailed mask with feathered head dresses amidst fine foliate, beaded and floral patterns leading up the striking central support with an impressive variety of designs. Above is the original circular red marble top.
