Rich and warm patina throughout.

Modeled after the original by Christophe-Gabriel Allegrain (1710-1795).

*Shown on limestone pedestal, sold separately.
