A lovely and most elegant French 19th century patinated Bronze statue, signed Salmson. This statue of two maidens walking alongside a winged cherub is titled 'Innocence & Plaisir', which translates to Innocence and Pleasure. Jean Jules Bernard Salmson depicts these beautiful maidens and cherub standing atop a square mottled base with a protruding front. The cherub remains in the nude while he seemingly leads one of the maidens forward. The maiden to the right attempts to return his toy of a jester. Each maiden is adorned in wonderful flowing garments whilst their hair is held back by foliate decorated bands.
