A striking French 19th century Renaissance st. ormolu eighteen light chandelier. The chandelier is centered by a unique bottom finial with crests, cabochons and rich scrolls. The bottom tier displays stunning and richly chased female maidens dress in flowing garments and set on hammered backgrounds. Flanking the maidens are stunning theatrical masks set on crests and intricately detailed acanthus leaves surrounding the lovely inverted bottom finial. Each cluster of scrolled arms displays striking foliate movements, smooth cabochons and dragons leading up to fine floral candle cups. Leading up to the most impressive top crown, is an ornate central six sided fut with finely detailed reserves of scrolled foliate movements and centered by exceptional seashell reserves. At the top, six 'S' scrolled movements surround the top crown separated by additional finely detailed reserves. All original gilt throughout.
