A striking and extremely decorative French early 19th century Louis Philippe st. Mouchette Mahogany and Alabastro marble console. The freestanding console is raised by an elegant bottom tier with a concave front showcasing the beautiful Mouchette Mahogany wood grain. The impressive scrolled dolphin shaped supports at each side display exquisite richly carved acanthus leaves, Rinceau movements, and lovely berried designs in front of a rectangular column. Above each support are fine block rosettes flanking the single drawer at the straight apron decorated with superb carved foliate designs, palmettes, and a central charming rosette all below the Alabastro marble top.
