A stunning French mid 19th century Louis XV st. serpentine shaped tulipwood and kingwood, ormolu mounted two door floral marquetry cabinet. The cabinet has elaborate and richly chased ormolu chutes with a top pierced design of fanciful acanthus leaves that lead down to the pierced ormolu sabots. The scalloped frieze with a central ormolu reserve of a berried foliate design is below the quarter veneered doors with an intricate floral marquetry inlay within a scrolled inlaid border. Both sides of the cabinet are inlaid in the same manner. At the top lays the original marble top with a mottled edge.

With the original interior shelf and all original gilt on bronzes.
