A most handsome late 19th century French Louis XV st. walnut and leather armchair. Raised on cabriole legs with acanthus leaves topped by a shell design on the front legs. The curved frieze and back are both centered by a detailed rocaille design amongst acanthus leaves and scrolls that continues on both sides. The important scrolled arms are heavily carved with acanthus leaves and an impressive cabachon design element. The brass nailhead trim and the brown leather upholstery complement the dark walnut. Rich carving throughout.
