A striking pair of French 19th century Charles X st. patinated bronze and ormolu candlesticks. Each candlestick is raised by a triangular base with concave sides and handsome paw feet amidst acanthus leaves. Above, socle shaped supports and wrap around foliate and seashell bands, stand the charming personages. To the right is a charming and most elegant maiden dressed in a flowing gown with flowers in her hair. To the left is a handsome gentleman dressed in period attire. Each are seemingly holding up scrolled rinceau shaped supports which lead up to the foliate and seashell candle cups and delicately fluted bobeches.
