A sensational and extremely high quality pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Belle Époque period Alabaster and ormolu urns. Each urn is raised by a beautiful fluted Alabaster base with cut corners and adorned with most decorative ormolu rosettes, fitted scrolled foliate plaques, and a fine wrap around beaded band. Three lightly curved supports with handsome hoof feet and foliate designs center a charming foliate finial and lead up to the elegantly shaped bodies and impressive richly chased masks in a superb satin and burnished finish. Each is encased in a stunning array of palmettes and scrolled foliate movements with a pierced wrap around band adorned with charming intricately detailed swaging blooming flower garlands and family crests. Above is the stunning floral finial with a beautiful spiral fluted design and foliate movements.
