A stunning and very high quality pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Brèche Violette marble and ormolu lamps. Each large scale lamp is raised by a square base with fine ormolu ball feet, a lovely bottom fillet, and a delicate wrap around beaded band below the socle shaped pedestal support with beautiful wrap around mottled foliate and tied berried laurel bands. The solid Brèche Violette marble body is encased with luxuriant palmettes at the base and exceptional most impressive richly chased intertwined snakes leading up each side with intricately detailed scales in a superb satin and burnished finish. Above is the elegantly curved neck with additional finely detailed foliate bands. All original gilt throughout.
