An extremely high quality and large scale pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st.cobalt blue Sèvres porcelain and ormolu urns. Each urn, in three parts, is raised by a square base with an ormolu band and most decorative gilt fillets and a beautiful socle pedestal with an impressive detailed berried laurel band. The body of the urn sits on the base and swivels around the original mechanism. The stunning urns display richly chased ram heads at each side joined by a swaging floral garland and intertwined ribbons in an exceptional satin and burnished finish. Above is a detailed coat of arms where two winged maidens hold a crown above three Fleur de Lys while the back displays a floral pattern. Above a Les Oves band is the removable lid with a rich acorn finial and lifts off to reveal the signature displayed on the inside and the finished ormolu interior. With all original gilt.
