A charming and most decorative pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Oak and ormolu commodes/night tables. Each three drawer chest is raised by elegant and very unique square legs with mottled feet and carved recessed arch shapes. The frieze displays a beautiful central floral reserve flanked by fine fluted designs. The three drawers each display exceptional richly carved scrolled foliate movements framed within a beaded band, which also leads up each side, and centered by a striking foliate ormolu keyhole escutcheons. Each side displays an elegant recessed panel while the top showcases the warm Oak grain with a double mottled border. All original warm patina throughout.
