An elegant and large scale pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Vert Campan marble and ormolu urns. Each impressive urn is raised by a square base with a mottled socle shaped pedestal decorated with a beautiful wrap around ormolu band with a most decorative twisted rope design. The elegantly shaped solid Vert Campan marble body is encased by striking handles of finely detailed interlocking serpents at each side connected by wonderful richly chased swaging blooming floral garlands tied with a lovely central ribbon. The lightly curved neck also displays a delicate wrap around twisted rope design and a fine mottled top border.
