A stunning and high quality pair of French 19th century Renaissance st. Bisque Porcelain, Ormolu, and Giltwood lamps, attributed to Sèvres. Each wonderful lamp is raised on a square Giltwood fluted pedestal with a spiral bottom edge and scrolling movements on each corner. Above the Giltwood pedestal is a square Ormolu block with a beaded band which supports the bisque Porcelain socle pedestal. The square Porcelain socle has mottled and etched edges, draping acanthus leaves, and a dentil pattern designed saucer just below an Ormolu band. The base of the bodies displays a wonderful and large scale spiral reeded design, below a fluted band and the scrolled Ormolu handles. The Ormolu handles are decorated by two scrolls which come together and are connected by a pierced foliate designed stretcher. The mid section showcases a joyful storytelling atmosphere of both male and female individuals holding drinks and dressed in flowing garments. The joyous scenes are flanked by exquisitely detailed trees with large leaves and berried branches. Above the celebration scene are beaded bands with a Coeur-de-Rai mottled edges and an Ormolu socle decorated with dentil and foliate patterned edges.
