A striking pair of French 19th century Renaissance st. patinated bronze and black Belgian marble lamps signed Barbedienne. Each lamp is raised by fine ormolu ball feet below the triangular Black Belgian marble bases with concave sides and finely mottled borders. Three elegantly curved supports with a handsome paw feet lead upwards to unique and extremely decorative reserves of Hercules wearing a lion's skin. The body displays beautiful finely detailed scenes of classical figures playing flutes, a statue on a pedestal, a man with a ram, and outside scenes with a hanging pan flute and a staff leaning on a pedestal. Above are elegantly curved handles connected by richly chased swaging blooming flower garlands with superb rams heads below the lightly curved necks decorated with additional foliate designs. All original patina throughout.

Ferdinand Barbedienne (1810 - 1892), a renowned French Bronzier. Between 1850 and 1854 his firm, Barbedienne, provided furnishings in the Renaissance Revival style for the Hôtel de Ville, Paris. They received numerous medals at the International Exhibitions, including medals in three different classes at the International Exhibition of 1862 in London.
