A striking and most decorative pair of French 19th century Transitional st. polychrome, Japanese lacquer, ormolu and Sarrancolin marble encoignure cabinets. Each corner cabinet is raised by fine cabriole feet with most elegant pierced foliate sabots flanking the arbalest shaped frieze which is centered by a fine flowing foliate ormolu mount. At the centers are striking and wonderfully executed Japanese lacquered panels framed within beautiful richly chased foliate ormolu bands. The panels depict lovely scenes of cranes by the water surrounded by charming water flora, leaves and flowers. Above at each corner are additional finely detailed ormolu mounts with charming flowers and rich hammered designs. Above are the original Sarrancolin marble tops with rounded corners and fine mottled borders. All original gilt throughout.
