A very handsome pair of Italian early 19th century Louis XIV st. walnut armchairs. Each chair is raised on topie feet with tapered legs accented by square blocks with central carved rosette design at the top and bottom. The front legs are joined by a turned tapered stretcher. An additional 'H' stretcher joins all four legs with square block and central carved rosette design centered on each side. The straight frieze and baluster shaped supports raise the impressive reeded scrolled arms, and high curved top backrest. Upholstered with a cream colored fabric finished with brass nailheads.
