An impressive and very high quality set of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Belle Époque period onyx and ormolu andirons. Each andiron is raised by elegant slender foliate topie shaped feet below superb richly chased berried laurel bands which extend along the concave front. The front andiron is raised by a fine mottled base with a lovely most decorative wrap around band. The andirons display striking and most decorative onyx quivers with fine ormolu bases and encased by beautiful scrolled elements at each side with a superb intricately detailed blooming flower swaging garlands. At the center of the front andiron are curved elements decorated with fine foliate designs and acanthus leaves with unique topie shaped onyx reserves connected to an exceptional ormolu band which extends along the top with superb tapered and foliate designs. Above is a charming tied ribbon, a lovely foliate wrap around band, and a reeded top with remarkable richly chased fletchings.
