An impressive and most decorative set of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Grand Tour period Walnut, marble, faux painted marble, and ormolu busts and pedestals. The large central bust depicts a Roman Emperor with a laurel branch wreath in his hair, a cloak over his shoulder, and is raised by a striking faux painted Verde marble pedestal support with a fine mottled border. The smaller ormolu busts are raised by fine Rouge Royale marble bases with wrap around mottled borders and richly chased ormolu personages above of a gentleman in a cape and a beautiful young woman with curly hair wearing a dress. At each side are striking columns raised by a square Noir Antique and Rosso Levanto marble bases below circular Vert Maurin marble supports with beautiful mottled ormolu plinths and striking finely detailed ormolu personages above.
