An elegant set of six French 19th century Louis XV st. Beechwood dining chairs. The set of honey colored chairs are raised on elegant front cabriole legs decorated with acanthus leaves and leading up to shell like carvings. The front and sides of the frieze display a wonderful scalloped shape accented by a charming bottom moulding which continues down the front legs. Above is the stunning back support upholstered in a wonderful French yellow and blue Toile fabric and bordered by natural colored French nails. The lower back has an elegant carved lattice design amidst additional scrolls, with the top crown displaying a wonderful crest like shape flanked by acanthus leaves.

Wonderful rich and warm honey colored tone throughout.
