A very handsome and statement making early 19th century Italian Louis XIV st. giltwood center table. The rectangular table is raised by 'S' scroll supports ending with richly carved paws below large acanthus leaves. The top and back of the legs have a reeded design and a lattice design at the sides. The fluted frieze is decorated by inner chandelles above a moulded band. At the top lays a most impressive and thick Opal Breccia and inlaid white Carrara all original marble with mottled edge.
