A stunning and most unique Austrian 19th century Louis XV st. ebony, ormolu and white Carrara marble, one drawer, two door commode à portes. The beautifully shaped chest is raised by lightly curved legs with fine wrap around fitted ormolu sabots. An elegant foliate ormolu band extends along each side and the arbalest shaped front. The ormolu band is accented by striking pierced seashell reserves and richly chased pierced corner mounts with a smooth central cabochon design. The doors are decorated with wonderfully executed foliate ormolu movements and an exceptional keyhole escutcheon. The two doors open to reveal one shelf and the superb finished mahogany interior with original hardware. The drawer is centered by a fabulous foliate seashell keyhole escutcheon from where most decorative foliate fillets extend. This design is repeated on the beautiful bombe shaped sides. Above is the original fitted Carrara marble top framed within an elegant richly chased ormolu band.
