A beautiful and most decorative English 19th century Adams st. satinwood, walnut, charmwood and giltwood planter. The planter is raised on a striking and richly carved giltwood base with six foliate topie shaped feet with Greek keys below elegantly curved supports. A beautiful fluted design extends throughout with intricately detailed swaging floral garlands and lovely wreaths hanging from scrolled elements. A finely carved wrap around mottled foliate band encases the hexagonal planter. Each of the six beautiful satinwood sides display a superb central oval inlaid medallion of beautiful finely detailed maidens and noblemen dressed in period attire holding musical instruments, a staff and the eternal flame. Each medallion displays a charming tied ribbon above with lovely swaging garlands with inlaid charmwood leaves connecting each medallion. An elegant beaded giltwood band extends along the top border framing the original removable pewter insert.
